THE DISPENSARY IS A SALOON.

There appears to be both logic and sound reasoning in the decision of the U.
S. circuit court, handed down at Richmond, Tuesday, to the effect that state dispensa-ries have no legal existence, and that no state can engage in the liquor traffic, that being a private business.

For the life of us we never could understand the necessity of dispensaries as they are conducted in Muskogee and every other city in the state.

While it is possibly true that liquor can only be bought in the Muskogee dispensary on the prescription of a physician, it is also true that these prescriptions are not hard to obtain, and, strange to say, the big business in them is done when the joints are under cover or the visible supply has run short.

It is safe to say that 90 per cent of the liquor sold at the dispensaries is for beverage and not for medical purposes, and dispensary drunks are becoming very common.

If the dealing in intoxicating liquors is a business that should either be abolished or else restricted and placed on a legiti-mate footing, (and we are among those who believe that the country would be better off if no whiskey was made), then the state has no right to engage in that business, for the example set is far from being beneficial. If it is wrong for the individual to sell liquor, then it is doubly wrong for the state to engage in the same business, for the sovereign state has no right to enter into competition in a business that, to say the least, is undesirable.
The dispensary is a saloon pure and simple, and that is all that can be made out of it. The United States court evidently is of this opinion, for in knocking out the dispensary system in Arkansas it holds as follows:

"The court announces that in the conception and adoption of the eleventh amendment, it never entered the minds of the framers of that amendment that a sovereign state could engage in the liquor business and become traders by buying and selling an article of commerce. The traffic is in competition with the citizens of the country."—Muskogee Times-Democrat.

The number of criminals who commit heinous crimes and escape arrest is becoming a serious matter, not only in Oklahoma, but elsewhere. A few weeks ago a woman and child were shot to death at Tulsa by the husband and father, in open daylight, and the murderer escaped and is at large now. Yesterday a young wife was wantonly murdered at Oklahoma City and up to present has not been arrested.
Not long ago a band of bank robbers robbed a bank in southern Kansas, escaped to Oklahoma and, after a few days of desultory and futile search, the chase was abandoned and the outlaws are still at large. These are only cited as a few cases where criminals made easy escape. Such things bring mob violence and cause the people to doubt the efficiency of the law to punish crime.

Now that the schools are open, there is no duty more imperative than that of seeing to it that the buildings are in proper condition. Ventilation, fire escapes and general sanitary conditions should not be neglected one hour. Then the next duty is to get as nearly all the children into the schools as possible.

Senator Jeff Davis voted for prohibition down in Arkansas the other day and then violated the election laws by showing his ballot. But there was probably no other way to make the people believe it.

Governor Haskell says that Hearst has a heart full of malice and a brain full of blind and obscure ambitions. Reduced to Western dialect, the meaning, doubtless, is that Hearst is full of prunes.

Even the republican press now declares that Bryan is growing in strength. This may be the year of the big landslide.

Special Attention Given to Horse Dentistry.
How to know when your horse's teeth are not right: He will turn his head to one side while chewing, spill food from his mouth and slobber, have swellings, lumps or running sores on the jaw. All big head or big jaw comes from bad teeth. Tossing the head, fighting the bit, champing the teeth, lolling the tongue, starts suddenly, stopping short, shying, driving sideways, lunging and running away, are some of the bad habits caused by the mouth being out of condition, with colic, indigestion and hide-bound. Cure all these habits and prevent diseases by putting the teeth in perfect order.

It is not the amount of food a horse eats that makes him fat, but what he digests.
Bad and irregular teeth kill many horses and cause many bad habits and diseases.
The horse suffers death often from his teeth; they are hid back in his mouth so his master can't see them, and he can't talk and tell his sufferings. He is a silent sufferer.

"WE SPEAK FOR THOSE THAT CANNOT SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES." We should remember that all the horse gets for his services is what little he eats. He has few friends. Examination free at my office.
I carry with me the most complete set of instruments on the road, and have some of the finest specimens in existence. Special invitation extended to stockmen and all interested in horses. I also have for sale a new system on the education and treatment of the horse. Price during this advertisement, $1.00.
